Kudos and Congrats: Pioneering lensman and FotoFest chairman Fred Baldwin's work documenting the Civil Rights movement is the subject of "Freedom's March," a major retrospective at Savannah, Georgia's Telfair Museum (through January 11). The companion volume documents a time and a place in America that remains extremely relevant today (don't miss the images of Dr. King) ... Texas man of granite Jesus Morales has received the highest art honor: a National Medal of Arts. Rockport-based Morales has sculpted granite monoliths from Houston to Beijing, and joins such greats as Agnes Martin and Louise Nevelson in receiving this accolade ... Internationally known, Houston Fifth Ward-based Bert Long Jr.'s epic "Art/Life" canvas now resides at the Houston Public Library Looscan Neighborhood Library in River Oaks, funded by the City of Houston's percent-for-art program, managed by Houston Arts Alliance ... Light and sound installationists Jeff Shore and Jon Fisher (repped by McClain Gallery) have taken over the Kemper Museum of Contemporary Art in Kansas City, Missouri (through January 11) ... Three hometown heroines are participating in Sculpture for New Orleans, a project that places public sculpture throughout the Crescent City for a two-year period: Sharon Kopriva's haunting Resurrection, Tara Conley's gargantuan bronze bunny and Michelle O'Michael's 18' steel spiral ... Wade Wilson-represented painter Joseph Marioni opens the McNay Museum in San Antonio's new Jane and Arthur Stieren Center for Exhibition, designed by French architect Jean-Paul Viguier. Marioni, whose luminescent monochromes ally him with the Concrete movement, is the first living American artist to solo in the museum's new wing (through January 18) ... Grande dame Iane Blaffer Owen received a prestigious National Trust for Historic Preservation honor, the Louise du Pont Crowninshield Award, for revitalizing New Harmony, Indiana.
